(ii) A Government servant may retire from service any time after completing 30 years' qualifying service provided that he shall give in this behalf a notice in writing to the appropriate authority, at least three months before the date on which he wishes to retire. Government may, in special cases, require any Government servant to retire any time after he has completed 25 years' qualifying service or on attaining 50 years age if such retirement is considered necessary in the public interest provided that the appropriate authority shall give in this behalf a notice in writing to the Government servant at least three months before the date on which he is required to retire.

(iii) A Government servant who retires or is retired, only in the manner indicated in sub-rule (ii), shall be granted a retiring pension not exceeding such proportion of average emoluments and subject to such maximum limit as are specified in Schedule A.

DEATH cum RETIREMENT GRATUITY.

(a) When the gratuity is payable to the Government servant on his retirement an application should be made in the form as in Form 'F'.

On receipt of the certificate of the Accountant-General on the third page of the form, the competent authority who will be the same as the authority competent to sanction the pension of the Government servant concerned, may formally sanction the gratuity. If the Government servant dies before receiving payment, the amount will be payable to his legal heirs and the payment will be made only to the person who produces the legal authority.

(b) When the gratuity is payable to the nominee or legal heir of the Government servant who dies while in service.— If the Government servant has executed a nomination in the prescribed form and the nomination subsists, the Head of the Office/Department should, on receipt of the death report of the Government servant, draw up a statement of his services in the second page of Form 'F'. If there is no nomination, or if the nomination does not subsist, the gratuity is payable only to the legal heirs of the deceased and in such cases the Head of the Office/Department need draw up the statement of services only on receipt of an application for the gratuity from or on behalf of the legal heirs supported by legal authority. The statement of services along with the provisional recommendations of the competent authority as to the amount of gratuity proposed to be paid (and the name and address of the person or persons to whom it is to be paid together with the nomination form, in the case of a non-gazetted Government servant) shall be forwarded to the Accountant-General for verification. After obtaining the certificate of verification (and ascertaining from the Accountant-General the details as to the nominee or nominees if the deceased is a gazetted Government servant) formal sanction to the payment of the gratuity may be accorded by the competent authority. The sanction should indicate the name, address and the relationship to the deceased Government servant of the person or persons to whom the gratuity is to be paid and the amount to be paid to each of them. The Accountant-General will then arrange for the disbursement of the amounts.

(c) When the gratuity is payable under rule 3 (iv).—In such a case the service of the Government servant would have been verified, and in other respects the procedure indicated in paragraph (b) above may be followed.

Family Pension.

(d) Two types of cases may arise in connection with family pension, namely, cases where the pension is payable in accordance with the nomination executed by the Government servant/pensioner and cases where it is payable to the person mentioned in sub-rule (v) of rule 5. Where the pension is payable in the order mentioned in the nomination, on receipt of the death-report of the Government servant/pensioner, the Head of the Office/Department should direct the nominee to submit an application in Form 'G'. If there is no such nominee, and an application in Form 'G' is received from a person mentioned in sub-rule (v) of rule 5, the Head of the Office/Department may make such enquiries as may be necessary, to ascertain that the pension is not payable to any other person mentioned in the aforesaid sub-rule. If the applicant is a person mentioned in clause (b) of that sub-rule, the Head of the Office/Department should satisfy himself that the applicant was dependent on the Government servant/pensioner for support after making such enquiries as may be necessary. The Head of the Office/Department should then arrange for verification of the Government servant's service in the manner indicated in paragraph (b) above and should determine the amount of family pension. After the Accountant-General has applied the necessary checks and certified as to the admissibility of family pension, the competent authority who will be the same as the authority competent to sanction the pension of the deceased Government servant, may accord formal sanction to the payment of the pension. The sanction should indicate the name of the person to whom the pension is payable and also the period up to which it is payable. On receipt of the sanction, the Accountant-General will issue the family pension payment order for the specified period indicating the event, if any, on the happening of which the payment should be stopped. In the matter of identification of the recipient of the family pension, the Treasury Officer will exercise the necessary checks. If the person to whom a family pension has been sanctioned dies or becomes ineligible for the pension before the expiry of the period for which the pension is otherwise admissible, the pension may be re-granted to the next person eligible to receive it for the unexpired portion of that period and the foregoing procedure should be followed in such cases also. If a family pension is payable to a minor and at the time of sanctioning the pension he has a regularly appointed guardian, the pension may be sanctioned as payable through such guardian and in such cases a descriptive roll (in duplicate) of the person who may be authorised to receive payment should accompany the application in Form 'G'.

Anticipatory Payments.

(e) When a Government servant who is entitled to death cum retirement gratuity is likely to retire before the amount of the gratuity can be finally assessed and settled in accordance with the procedure mentioned above, the Accountant-General may sanction the disbursement of not more than three-fourths of the amount of gratuity to which, after the most careful summary investigation that he can make without delay, he believes the Government servant to be entitled to on the basis of permanent service alone. Similar payments of gratuity may also be authorised in the appropriate proportion to the nominees or the legal heirs who produce the usual legal authority, in the event of the death of the Government servant. In all cases the anticipatory payment of death cum retirement gratuity should be made after the recipient has executed a declaration in Form 'H'.

Government may, in special cases, require any Government servant to retire any time after he has completed 25 years' qualifying service or on attaining 50 years age if such retirement is considered necessary in the public interest provided that the appropriate authority shall give in this behalf a notice in writing to the Government servant at least three months before the date on which he is required to retire.

In case the person concerned does not satisfy the requirements of the said sub-rule the pension shall be granted to the person next lower in the order. The provisions of sub-rules (vi) (b), (viii) and (ix) of rule 4 will apply in respect of nominations under this sub-rule.

(vii) (a) A pension awarded under this Section will not be payable to more than one member of a Government servant's family at the same time.

Government reserves to itself the right of withholding or withdrawing such a pension or any part of it if the recipient be convicted of serious crime or be guilty of grave misconduct and Government decision in such matters will be final.

SECTION IV.—QUALIFYING SERVICE.

6. Qualifying service will be calculated as prescribed in Chapter XV of these Regulations.

SECTION V.—AVERAGE EMOLUMENTS.

7. In the case of a Government servant who elects to be governed by these rules "Average Emoluments" means the average emoluments earned by him during his last three years of service. Emoluments for the purpose of this rule will be as defined in Article 322.

The calculation of average emoluments under the definition above is subject to the provisions mentioned in Articles 323 to 325.

SECTION VI.—COMMUTATION OF PENSIONS AND COMPASSIONATE GRATUITY.

8. The provisions under Chapter XXVII of these Regulations in respect of Commutation and Compassionate Gratuity will not be applicable to Government servants governed by these Rules.

SECTION VII.—DATE OF EFFECT AND APPLICATION TO PERSONS WHO ARE ALREADY IN SERVICE.

9. (i) These rules will have effect from the 1st August 1952 and shall apply to all Government servants in superior and inferior service. These rules shall not apply to Government servants either in superior or inferior service who retired prior to 1st August 1952:

Provided that in the case of a Government servant in the superior service who has been holding a permanent pensionable appointment from any day before the first day of April 1952, these rules will not be applicable, if on or before the first day of January 1953, he exercises his option, in the manner hereinafter provided, to continue to be governed by the Articles of these Regulations regarding the grant of pensions.

Explanation.—For the purpose of the proviso to this sub-rule "a person holding a permanent pensionable appointment" includes a person holding substantively or in a provisionally substantive capacity, a permanent and pensionable post; and a person holding a permanent lien or a suspended lien on a permanent and pensionable post.

(ii) The option once exercised will be final. It should be exercised by making a declaration in writing and should be communicated by the Government servant to the Head of his Office if he is a non-gazetted Government servant and to the Accountant-General, Mysore, if he is a gazetted Government servant. The declaration when received from a non-gazetted Government servant should be countersigned by the Head of the Office and pasted in the Service Book of the Government servant concerned. It will be the responsibility of a Government servant opting to continue to be governed by the Articles of these Regulations as a whole, to ensure that the receipt of his declaration is acknowledged by the Accountant-General, Mysore or by the Head of his Office, as the case may be.

(iii) Where a Government servant has died on any day on or after the 1st day of April 1952 and before the 1st day of August 1952, his family may be granted the benefit of these rules, if an application is made for such grant and the applicant repays the amount, if any, received as compassionate gratuity or otherwise granted under these Regulations, or, agrees in writing to the deduction of the amount so received from the amount payable under these rules.

SECTION VIII.—MISCELLANEOUS.

10. (i) No gratuity or pension may be granted under Sections II and III if the Government servant was dismissed or removed for misconduct, insolvency or inefficiency. Compassionate allowances may, however, be granted in accordance with Article 223.

(ii) A gratuity or pension shall be sanctioned under Sections II and III after giving due regard to the provisions of Article 317.

(iii) The provisions of these Regulations which apply to the grant of an ordinary pension will also apply in respect of a gratuity or pension that may be sanctioned under Sections II and III in so far as such provisions are not inconsistent with the provisions of these rules.

(iv) The procedure for application, sanction and payment of death-cum-retirement gratuity and family pension will be as in Schedule B.

11. When a Government servant governed by these Rules is after retirement re-appointed, his pay will be so fixed that the pay plus the pension does not exceed the pay drawn while last in service and the pension to be taken into consideration will be the pension he actually draws or is entitled to draw under these Rules plus the pension equivalent of the gratuity, which he has received or is entitled to receive on retirement. The pension equivalent of the gratuity will be determined on the basis of the table of commutation of pensions in Appendix 'L' the age of the person being taken as the age next birthday after retirement from Government service.

Note.—When a Government servant is re-employed in a post in a lower grade than that from which he retired, he shall be given the minimum of the post in which he is re-employed subject to the maximum specified in this rule.

SCHEDULE B.

(Vide Rule 10.)

DEATH cum RETIREMENT GRATUITY.

(a) When the gratuity is payable to the Government servant on his retirement an application should be made in the form as in Form F.

On receipt of the certificate of the Accountant-General on the third page of the form, the competent authority who will be the same as the authority competent to sanction the pension of the Government servant concerned, may formally sanction the gratuity. If the Government servant dies before receiving payment, the amount will be payable to his legal heirs and the payment will be made only to the person who produces the legal authority.

(b) When the gratuity is payable to the nominee or legal heir of the Government servant who dies while in service.— If the Government servant has executed a nomination in the prescribed form and the nomination subsists, the Head of the Office/Department should, on receipt of the death report of the Government servant, draw up a statement of his services in the second page of Form 'F'. If there is no nomination, or if the nomination does not subsist, the gratuity is payable only to the legal heirs of the deceased and in such cases the Head of the Office/Department need draw up the statement of services only on receipt of an application for the gratuity from or on behalf of the legal heirs supported by legal authority. The statement of services along with the provisional recommendations of the competent authority as to the amount of gratuity proposed to be paid (and the name and address of the person or persons to whom it is to be paid together with the nomination form, in the case of a non-gazetted Government servant) shall be forwarded to the Accountant-General for verification. After obtaining the certificate of verification (and ascertaining from the Accountant-General the details as to the nominee or nominees if the deceased is a gazetted Government servant) formal sanction to the payment of the gratuity may be accorded by the competent authority. The sanction should indicate the name, address and the relationship to the deceased Government servant of the person or persons to whom the gratuity is to be paid and the amount to be paid to each of them. The Accountant-General will then arrange for the disbursement of the amounts.

(c) When the gratuity is payable under rule 3 (iv).—In such a case the service of the Government servant would have been verified, and in other respects the procedure indicated in paragraph (b) above may be followed.

Family Pension.

(d) Two types of cases may arise in connection with family pension, namely, cases where the pension is payable in accordance with the nomination executed by the Government servant/pensioner and cases where it is payable to the person mentioned in sub-rule (v) of rule 5. Where the pension is payable in the order mentioned in the nomination, on receipt of the death-report of the Government servant/pensioner, the Head of the Office/Department should direct the nominee to submit an application in Form 'G'. If there is no such nominee, and an application in Form 'G' is received from a person mentioned in sub-rule (v) of rule 5, the Head of the Office/Department may make such enquiries as may be necessary, to ascertain that the pension is not payable to any other person mentioned in the aforesaid sub-rule. If the applicant is a person mentioned in clause (b) of that sub-rule, the Head of the Office/Department should satisfy himself that the applicant was dependent on the Government servant/pensioner for support after making such enquiries as may be necessary. The Head of the Office/Department should then arrange for verification of the Government servant's service in the manner indicated in paragraph (b) above and should determine the amount of family pension. After the Accountant-General has applied the necessary checks and certified as to the admissibility of family pension, the competent authority who will be the same as the authority competent to sanction the pension of the deceased Government servant, may accord formal sanction to the payment of the pension. The sanction should indicate the name of the person to whom the pension is payable and also the period up to which it is payable. On receipt of the sanction, the Accountant-General will issue the family pension payment order for the specified period indicating the event, if any, on the happening of which the payment should be stopped. In the matter of identification of the recipient of the family pension, the Treasury Officer will exercise the necessary checks. If the person to whom a family pension has been sanctioned dies or becomes ineligible for the pension before the expiry of the period for which the pension is otherwise admissible, the pension may be re-granted to the next person eligible to receive it for the unexpired portion of that period and the foregoing procedure should be followed in such cases also. If a family pension is payable to a minor and at the time of sanctioning the pension he has a regularly appointed guardian, the pension may be sanctioned as payable through such guardian and in such cases a descriptive roll (in duplicate) of the person who may be authorised to receive payment should accompany the application in Form 'G'.

Anticipatory Payments.

(e) When a Government servant who is entitled to death cum retirement gratuity is likely to retire before the amount of the gratuity can be finally assessed and settled in accordance with the procedure mentioned above, the Accountant-General may sanction the disbursement of not more than three-fourths of the amount of gratuity to which, after the most careful summary investigation that he can make without delay, he believes the Government servant to be entitled to on the basis of permanent service alone. Similar payments of gratuity may also be authorised in the appropriate proportion to the nominees or the legal heirs who produce the usual legal authority, in the event of the death of the Government servant. In all cases the anticipatory payment of death cum retirement gratuity should be made after the recipient has executed a declaration in Form 'H'.
